Lisa Curran—Vice President, Investor Relations, Fortive

Hi, thanks for joining us today. I have the privilege to sit down with Carl Christenson, CEO of Altra, and Jim Lico, CEO of Fortive.

We are here today to talk about this morning's exciting announcement.

So, Jim and Carl, thank you for joining us today. Our teams are looking forward to learning more about the announcement. But, first, why don't you tell us about your background?

Carl Christenson—Chairman & Chief Executive Officer, Altra

Sure, I was educated as an engineer and I have been involved with electromechanical devices for my entire career. In fact, I started while I was in college I started with Kollmorgen Corporation in the electro-optics division and I have been with Altra Industrial Motion since 2005 and became the CEO in 2009.

Jim Lico—President & Chief Executive Officer, Fortive

I have been Fortive's CEO for the last 18 months, since we went public in July of 2016. Prior to that, I was with Danaher for over 20 years and in a variety of different businesses throughout Fortive so really excited about our announcement today.

Lisa Curran—Vice President, Investor Relations, Fortive

Carl, what would you like to tell us about the announcement?

Carl Christenson—Chairman & Chief Executive Officer, Altra

We are extremely excited about the combination of these two companies. We think it is going to be a great opportunity for our employees to continue to develop their skills. We think it is going to be wonderful for our customers and we think we are going to be able to expand the end-markets that we serve. So we think it is a terrific opportunity. Jim, would you like to add anything?

Jim Lico—President & Chief Executive Officer, Fortive

Yeah, I think I would totally agree with you. This is an opportunity for us to do some incredible things with the combination of the business. They are very complementary. We couldn't be more excited about what this does for our customers I think first and foremost. But, it is going to be a great opportunity for our employees and of course, when it is an opportunity for our customers and employees it is a great deal for our shareholders. And so I know that's what's really made us excited about it and we couldn't be more excited to talk about this announcement today.

Lisa Curran—Vice President, Investor Relations, Fortive

Carl, how did we come to the decision to combine these great businesses?

Carl Christenson—Chairman & Chief Executive Officer, Altra

Well, we are an acquisitive company. We have made 11 acquisitions since we first formed the company in 2004. And we believe that there is an extremely good fit between the product offering, they are very complementary products, the end-markets that are served. There are some good new end-markets for the companies. But, most of all, I think it's a really good fit for the employees. The two cultures of the business are very similar. The Fortive business system and the Altra business system are very similar and drive continuous improvement. So, I am very excited to have the employees working together and driving the growth of the company.

Jim Lico—President & Chief Executive Officer, Fortive

And I think one of the great things that all of our employees need to understand in both companies is that we are both doing this from a position of strength. We didn't need to do the deal. Both businesses are in great shape. And the fact that we are really bringing is really advancing the strategy of both sets of businesses, which I think is ultimately going to create tremendous value over the next several years.

Lisa Curran—Vice President, Investor Relations, Fortive

We've talked about the cultural fit between the businesses. How else would you describe the common cultural elements to a new employee?

Jim Lico—President & Chief Executive Officer, Fortive

Well, we'll talk a lot about continuous improvement because I think both cultures have a real foundation for continuous improvement. But, I think the other one is really a focus on growth and taking care of customers. And I think when you really look at the processes in the business and the success that you've had in your business. And I certainly think with our leaders who've done the same thing, there's really a strong focus on making sure the customers are taken care of. And I think that's going to be a common cultural element that everyone will see when they get to know each other and the company.

Carl Christenson—Chairman & Chief Executive Officer, Altra

My observation with the businesses are similar. Innovation is a key to that customer development and both companies provide excellent engineered solutions. And when they get in and work with the customer and can get that access to the customer's engineering teams, they seem to win the new business. So I'm excited to have the joint development and innovation to drive the business forward.

Lisa Curran—Vice President, Investor Relations, Fortive

I understand that this transaction should close by the end of the year – I believe that's about eight months. So, what can your teams expect to happen over that period of time?

Jim Lico—President & Chief Executive Officer, Fortive

Well I think first of all, we've done these types of transactions before, the RMT-type transaction. So we're very confident in the project plan and the roadmap that we'll work together as partners and that will certainly be work for some part of the organization. I think secondly we've got to make sure that our competitors don't take advantage of this opportunity. That we continue to do everything we need to do to serve customers, take market share and to build great businesses as a normal course of business. That's really important. We'll continue to communicate throughout the process to keep everybody involved in what's going on and for them to be knowledgeable about the process. Eight months will go by quickly. Before we know it, we'll be completing this transaction and we'll be ready to serve customers with the new company.

Carl Christenson—Chairman & Chief Executive Officer, Altra

And, I think for most employees it will be business as usual. You know, we will have a team that will be put together to integrate the two businesses together. But for most people, it will be business as usual. And one thing that I would ask everybody to do is to start thinking about, you know, how can we make this a better company? By putting these two businesses together, how can we go drive growth faster?

Lisa Curran—Vice President, Investor Relations, Fortive

So, Carl, is there anything else you would like to share with our JVS, Kollmorgen, Thomson and Portescap employees?

Carl Christenson—Chairman & Chief Executive Officer, Altra

I'm really looking forward to welcoming all the employees to the new company, once we close the transaction, hopefully at the end of the year. And, I would just like to say that you are going to be extremely important to the success of the new company. And I want everybody to feel like it's their new home and that they can make a contribution to making improvements in the business. So, welcome.

Lisa Curran—Vice President, Investor Relations, Fortive

So, Jim, is there anything else that you would like to add as we embark on this journey together?

Jim Lico—President & Chief Executive Officer, Fortive

Yeah, I'm so excited for our employees. It's been a great – they've done a great job of building great businesses. With all of our automation specialty businesses are in a great market position because the hard work that all of our folks have done around the world. And I think like the spin that Fortive had out of Danaher, which created great shareholder value and tremendous opportunities for our employees, so will this transaction. And so, we are really excited to really complete this. It will take some time. Eight months is a long period of time, but it will go very fast. And I think the journey for us is really moving into a more focused company around these markets. And we are really in a great position to take advantage of the opportunities that are available to us. So, I couldn't be more excited.

Lisa Curran—Vice President, Investor Relations, Fortive

Thank you. On behalf of Carl and Jim, thank you for joining us today. We hope that you found this helpful and we look forward to communicating with you further about this exciting announcement.
